Why should Employers be Concerned?

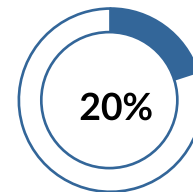

Financial worries cause:

- Stress, anxiety and at times even depression;
- Distraction: Less engaged employees
- Lack of Motivation
- Increased absenteeism and reduced performance
- Frequent job changes
- Moonlighting

all of the above hurts your organization's productivity and bottom line

Stressed employees reported financial worries have a negative impact on their productivity

Employee turnover can be attributed to financial stress

Education Loan

Large EMIs in initial years
Ignore savings/investing early

ESOPs/Annual Bonuses

Sometimes lead to windfall gains, but if not managed wisely, will finish soon and cause financial stress
